Hi Casey

Thanks for your email that was forwarded to me by my colleague, Tina Curry.

Regarding the informational brochures you requested – what kind of information are you looking for? Basic disaster preparedness stuff? I have asked our PIO for the documents that we give out – I can get you the PDF if you want to print them.

Regarding the chachkies / swag, unfortunately, we do not have any. The current Administration is very fiscally responsible and a strong steward of tax payer dollars. Anything like that is not in our budget. Sorry!

Finally, we have not funded the 211 program with our grants in the past. Depending on what you are looking to do, you might qualify for some of the grants, but I can't be sure.

Have you spoken with 211 of Sonoma county <http://211sonoma.org/> ? Or perhaps 211 Napa County <http://www.211bayarea.org/napa/> ? Mendocino county has a 211 program as well <http://211mendocino.org/>

We have worked with the broader California association in the past. <https://www.211ca.org/>

I highly recommend you coordinate with them if you are looking to bring a new program to the area, or looking for specific funding.

Thanks!
Abby

Hi Christina:

Hope all is well. I just left you a voice mail. I have two questions.

1. We are planning on giving away 5000 disaster kits in October and hoping CAL OES can provide informational brochures or chachkies to include.
2. We are exploring the idea of creating a 211 program in the North Bay and am interested in identifying funding sources.

THANKS!

Thank you Reggie

Nice to meet you Mr. Witt.

Please let me know a good time to chat. I have a few conference calls scheduled this afternoon, but tomorrow looks good.

Thanks!

Hey JL & DA-

It was great seeing the both of you last week.....

As was discussed relative to coordinating an effective and efficient recovery, we'd like to incorporate Abby Browning who heads-up our Office of Private Sector & NGO Coordination into your efforts.

I've added her to this e-mail and would like to know who would be best to have her reach out to on a staffing level.

Thanks in advance,
Reggie

Subject: Potential temporary housing solution

Mark and Abby:

Attached please find an updated Vantem Temporary Housing presentation for the North Bay recovery effort. The Vantem structure uses proprietary structural insulated panel technology which provides the following benefits: rapid construction (temporary housing can be erected in 3-4 hours), cost effective, energy efficient (5 times more energy efficient than traditional brick and mortar construction), resistant to earthquakes and strong winds, resistant to termites and mold, and fire resistant. In addition, installing and finishing the imported structures would employ the local labor force.

There are a variety of configurations that can be made with the 10' x 20' standard units, including single, double, and triple unit configurations. In addition, the steel pile foundation system can be easily installed and quickly removed at the designated locations provided by the wineries.

The single Ready-to-Assemble units have a projected cost of $9,776 each (total cost CIF to port) which includes a bathroom, kitchenette and air conditioning (Price does not include duties, taxes, transportation cost from San Francisco port to installation site, site preparation, development costs, and local labor to install).

Production: We could begin with shipments of up to 600 units in the first month and 1000 units by the second month.

The Vantem structural panel technology is a great solution to the housing crisis in the North Bay recovery area. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you.
